

To Whom it May Concern,

Thanks to you and a bunch of other organizations, I have enough address labels to last several lifetimes (not to mention a considerable stock of notepads, greeting cards, gift wrapping paper, and other such items).

Nevertheless, you continue to send more and more of them, sometimes several batches from the same group within days of each other.

Can you please stop sending more of them?

This actually makes me less inclined to ever contribute, since I'd rather give to organizations where I know the money is going for worthy causes, instead of to pay for postage and printing to clog people's mailboxes with junk mail (not to mention the environmental waste).

Thank you.
